

Making Good on Promises

In 2008, then Bible School Director Silverio Blanco and I met to talk about ways in which we could work together to update the facilities of the Instituto Bíblico, Bethel. At that time, the Bible school was hosting three separate programs with only two adequate classrooms. The library was under-stocked and relegated to the back of one of those classrooms, and there was no area for student fellowship or facilities for proper food preparation.

As believers in ministerial education, we felt the need to partner with Bethel to help meet some of these needs. Unfortunately, the economic crisis hit later that year, stalling the process and leaving the plans on the drawing board. Nevertheless, our commitment remained firm.

Fast forward to 2010. During our itineration process, we promoted the need at Bethel, and you responded,

He Knows...

In light of recent disasters, it's easy to fall to the temptation of asking: Does God know? Fortunately, as we are observant, He shows us that he does.

We witnessed one such example, in Tzalam, Yucatan. Gathered in prayer, we asked God to bless the congregation led there by Pastor Eucebio Pech. Finishing our prayer, my brother, Mike, who had been visiting with his Chi Alpha team, asked me what the needs were in that community. I told him that transportation was the issue. The pastor's scooter was underpowered to reach the congregations he served. Mike and the team left with a burden in their heart and a mind to do something about it.

giving to help fund the updates. We're happy to report that, this spring, construction began on a new two-story building that will house a cafeteria, a new library, and new classroom space. The money that you gave has gone toward laying the foundation and support structure of this project.

The month of June brought even more help as a team from Sparrow Fellowship helped raise the walls of the first floor. Manasas Assembly also sent a sizeable gift toward the project. In July, we're expecting more help as we raise the roof of the first floor.

Of course, none of this would be possible without your support. Thank you for your response during our itineration, and thank you for your faithfulness as we continue the work.

Returning to DC, they found that they had done enough fundraising to cover the trip with $1,000 dollars to spare for a replacement motorcycle. The beautiful thing was that the money arrived just as Eucebio's old scooter had finally broken down.

So, as we reflect on God's involvement in our lives, I hope that you are encouraged by how he met the need of one pastor, and I pray that you'll be reminded that in whatever situation you may be in, He knows.

pray

We desperately need your prayers as we continue our ministry here in Mexico. Please pray:

- That the progress being made at the Bible School will encourage local Mexican churches to contribute to its growth.
- That we will find Maya workers to partner with us in our church planting project.

relate

School's out for our incredible threesome, which means more free time for Rebekah, Joseph, and Jonathan. But don't worry, Family Camp, Vacation Bible School, and perhaps some drilling in times tables will be sure to keep them active this summer!
