Making Connections That Matter

One of the greatest joys of our ministry is the role we get to play as "connectors." Being Northern Triad Area Directors, we are uniquely positioned to bring people, ideas, and resources together so that ministry can flourish in Mexico, Cuba, and the Dominican Republic.

August marked the culmination of months of preparation as we joined our national partners in Mexico for the National Pentecostal Jubilee in Monterrey. We had the privilege of coordinating the visits of two special guests—World Assemblies of God Fellowship (WAGF) Chairman, Dominic Yeo, and church health leader and author, Alton Garrison. Their ministry was powerful, but just as meaningful was the encouragement their presence brought to pastors and leaders from across the nation. Being on hand to help facilitate their stay allowed us to witness how this connection made the Jubilee such a significant moment for so many.

During this season, we're also walking closely with our global worker colleagues across the Northern Triad. Missionary life can feel isolating, so it's a privilege to stand shoulder to shoulder with these friends—listening, offering practical help, and supporting them in both life and ministry.

And then there's itineration. Every service and conversation is a chance to connect local churches with what God is doing on the field. We love reporting back on the impact of your prayers and giving, and we love inviting new partners to join the story.

At its heart, connecting is about multiplying impact. Whether it's helping international leaders bless a nation, strengthening fellow global workers, or inviting churches and individuals into more active involvement in missions, none of us are called to do this alone. Thank you for standing with us—together we are making connections that matter.

Itineration has afforded us opportunities to connect with friends new and old, like Ann Floyd at Brighton Assembly. We first met in 1992!

This fall, as members of the Global Training Team, we welcome 43 new associates and 25 career candidates into the AGWM family! It also marks the start of competency training for veterans as we embark on a journey to equip them to confidently support the next generation of global workers.

We're so proud of our sons and their career progress. After working for Amazon for three years, they've received promotions! Joseph (pictured with his wife, Tatiana) is now an operations manager, and Jonathan is a process assistant.

Stand with Dave and Kelly!
